Dear students,

University education is one of the most important periods of life. This period, which is characterized by an intense engagement, is an opportunity to take major steps towards professional training. Since the very first moment of its establishment, the main goal of “Hëna e Plotë” Bedër University has been to focus all energies on preparing students with a high professional and academic integrity, endowed with universal values, who are conscientious and productive for themselves and the society as well.

To serve this goal, the University has managed to combine the theoretical and practical aspects by offering students the opportunity to apply the obtained knowledge in order to help students complete their education the best way possible. I am sure that here you will find not only an educational institution but also a familiar environment where you will benefit from different cultures that come through a mosaic of international students.

This booklet has been designed as a guide for students and it provides them with key information about situations that they will have to face during university life. I hope the information provided in this guide will facilitate understanding the necessary university procedures and will avoid any ambiguity in this respect.

I wish you good luck,

Dr. Ferdinand Gjani
Rector

THE ACADEMIC YEAR

Attendance and participation

What is expected of me in terms of attendance and participation?

Before enrolling you should have already ensured that your program is acceptable and suitable for you in terms of being able to meet the specified attendance, learning and assessment requirements. We cannot normally alter a program of study to meet an individual's needs.

You are expected to attend all elements of your program of study during the specified term dates (including the entire exam period). You must also meet all published assessment deadlines and sit tests and invigilated exams.

Students who have not attended at least 70% of theoretical courses are not allowed to take the final exam of those courses. It is your responsibility to find out what is expected of you at the start of the academic year and to arrange your time so as to meet all deadlines and be present in all learning activities (lectures, seminars, etc).

Absences

Can I be absent?

Certification must be provided for illness and other such causes of absence, and you must arrange to catch up on missed lectures and work.

If you feel you are going to be absent for a significant period of time and therefore miss too much to be able to catch up, then you should discuss this with your academic advisor and give serious consideration to freeze your studies.

In the event that a leave of absence is demanded, the student shall apply to the Student Affairs Division within twenty days at the latest following the occurrence of such reason and prove it by documentary evidence. The continuity of the said reasons is grounds for the extension of leave of absence by the executive board. A student on a leave of absence during a semester cannot attend classes and take the final examinations of such semester.

Enrolment

What is enrolment?

Along with registration, completing enrolment is part of the process of you becoming a student of “Hëna e Plotë” (Bedër) University and as such is compulsory. Only once you are fully enrolled will you be able to go to lectures and other learning activities as well as access facilities such as the library or computer labs. Final enrollment dates, are determined and announced by the University.

Tuition fees

What are the arrangements for tuition fees?

Tuition fees cover registration and course fees. They do not include fees for text books, any specialist equipment. Payment of tuition fees is a precondition for full enrolment.

If you fail to pay your fees on time then Bedër is entitled to terminate your enrolment and registration. For further information please contact the Finance Office.

Interrupting studies

How do I interrupt my enrolment or change my registration status?

Permission for interruption of studies on the grounds of illness or other good cause may be granted subject to a decision by the Faculty Administrative Board provided that he/she applies at the latest within 30 days after the beginning of the academic year. The student has to pay one third of the tuition fees for each semester for which he/she has been granted a leave of absence. you may only interrupt for a maximum of 2 years in total. Any break in your studies for a significant period requires submission of an ‘Interruption of Studies’ form, available from the Registrar Office.

Interrupting your studies will mean that you will not be able to attend lectures or use facilities such as the library or laboratory even if you are still registered at Beder University.

Changing your program of study

Can I change my program of study?

Yes, but normally within the first two weeks. This can be straightforward if the two programs are closely related, but if the change is more fundamental then you may need to start the new program from the beginning. This will mean extending your period of study and paying additional tuition fees.

It requires signatures from your new (where appropriate) and existing Heads of Department (or their delegated authority) before the change is approved. you should always consult your personal tutor and the Registrar's Office before changing your program of study.

Withdrawal and deregistration

What are withdrawal and de-registration?

Withdrawal from program by students desire, or if the student would violate the provisions of the regulations of the institutions, or the failure to fulfill the obligations coming from the students contract will lead in the immediate closure of registration, which mean that student will be no longer part of Bedër University. If you withdraw or are deregistered from your program then you may not use any of the University facilities.

Students wishing to leave the University at their own discretion shall apply in written form to the Registrar's Office. Upon request by any such student, a document demonstrating academic status and diplomas and other documents submitted when registering shall be given back to the student, except that tuition fees paid until then are non-refundable.

Course registration and withdrawal

What is Course registration?

Your program of study is made up of a number of different courses, each covering a key topic or theme. Some (or even all) of the courses may be required for your program and you will have to take these, but at the start of each academic year you can choose your other courses (electives) from a list set up by your Department. This selection, and its validation by your Department, is called course registration.

If you are not registered for a course then you are not permitted to attend lectures or to take any assessment for that course. If you register for a course then you are deemed to be taking it unless withdrawal follows. Students with their advisor's approval, may withdraw from one or more courses, or register for other courses within two weeks following the beginning of each semester.

Course marks and grades

What are the requirements for passing a course?

You must complete all specified assessment to the standard required in the course syllabus and regulations. For example some courses will require you to get a specific mark in the coursework element in order to pass. An aggregated, weighted mark will be awarded for each module you take.

If you pass a course with C is considered successful. However, a course passed with an C- grade is considered satisfactory as prerequisite. A student with a grade point average of (2.00) or over and without a failing grade in a course in the program is considered satisfactory. Students should pass all the courses in the program in order to satisfactorily complete the undergraduate preparation program.

Students whose GPA is below 1.80 are put on probationary status. Students on probation status at the end of the fourth semester cannot take courses from the fifth semester and over until student meets the conditions of the probation. In order to leave the probation status you principally should repeat some of the courses with a grade below C. Otherwise you can not take the courses of the proceeding years.

Grades not included in the averages are the following:

I- Incomplete,
S- Satisfactory,
T- Transfer,
U- Unsatisfactory,
P- Progressive,
EX- Exempt,
NI- Not Included,
NA- Non-Attendant

The (I) grade is awarded by the lecturer to a student who failed to complete the requirements of a course due to illness or other valid reason although s/he was successful during the term. In the event that a student receives an (I) grade for a course, s/he must receive a grade by completing the previously unfulfilled requirements within fifteen days from the announcement date of the grades. Otherwise, the (I) grade will automatically turn into an (F). However, in the case of long-lasting illness or a similar situation, the term for the (I) grade may be extended till the beginning of the following registration term, upon a proposal by the relevant department and subject to the approval of the relevant faculty executive board.

The (S) grade is given to students who pass the courses not included in the averages.

The (T) grade is given to the students who transfer from a national or international institution of higher education to the University or do a lateral transfer in the institution, or attended student exchange programs or preparation schools of undergraduate programs to indicate equivalence with respect to previously taken courses, upon a proposal by head of relevant department and subject to approval of the relevant executive board. The (T) grade is not included in students' averages.

Regarding the subjects taken during student exchange programs, the Administrative Council of the relevant Faculty decides on the equivalence of credits and grades received in these subjects.

The (U) grade is awarded to students who fail to pass courses taken as non-credit courses, which are courses not included in point averages.

The (P) grade is given to students who successfully pursue courses not included in point averages.

The (EX) grade is given to students who have passed the exemption tests administered by the relevant department with regard to courses specified by the Senate. The (EX) grade is not included in GPAs.

The purpose of (NI) grade is to describe the courses where the student is registered but that are not accounted in the average. This grade is indicated on the student's transcript along with the grade in letters the student has received from the relevant course. The course's load that have this status are included in the groups of courses defined in the Article 14 and they are not used in the procedures of calculating the courses of the program or the programs in which the student is registered. Courses in which students have scored (NI) cannot be repeated.

The (NA) grade is given to students who have failed to fulfill the requirements of attending a course or course applications. The (NA) grade is treated as an (F) when calculating GPA.

Assessment methods

How will I be assessed?

Courses are often assessed by a combination of assessment methods; the used methods are determined by the lecturer of the subject. Some of the different assessment methods identified by "Hëna e Plotë" (Bedër) University are: examinations, coursework, practical assessment, dissertations/projects etc. Examinations are generally in written form. However, the instructor of the course decides within two weeks after the semester, in the syllabus if the students should give the exam in the written form, orally or through a tutorial, assignment, etc.

For all the forms mentioned above, the deadlines are determined preliminarily. It is important that you submit your assessment by the deadline, otherwise will be penalized. If, due to extenuating circumstances, you are having difficulties in completing your coursework by the deadline, contact the relevant professor/department in advance and ask about getting an extension; do not wait until after the deadline. Extensions will not normally be given without evidence of valid extenuating circumstances.

Examinations

How will I know when my exams are taking place?

The semester is divided in two periods. The midterms period and the final examination period. All the dates of the exams will be published two weeks before the first exam in the respective exam period. The exams are held in the stated University building, at the date, venue and time specified in the programs.

What happens if I arrive late for my exam?

You should make sure that you arrive at least 30 minutes before the start of your exams, allowing sufficient time for transport difficulties. However if you do arrive late you may be allowed to enter but you will not be awarded additional time in compensation. If you arrive more than 30 minutes late then you will only be admitted if no other student for your exam has left the venue. You may not leave the exam venue unaccompanied in the first 30 minutes.

What should I bring to my exams?

Only the materials permitted for the exam by the relevant Professor, together with your Student ID Card. These materials should be kept loose on the desk or in a clear plastic bag or pencil case. Calculators, dictionaries, word lists and other translation devices are not permitted you will be asked to place your Student ID Card on your exam desk so that the attendance list and identities can be checked.

Ensure that your mobile phone, if you must bring it, is turned off and left with no alarms set. The alarm on many models of mobile phones will sound even when the handset is switched off. If your phone causes a disturbance during an exam then it will be confiscated and be treated as an assessment offence.

If you are in possession of unauthorized materials then you will have been deemed to have committed an assessment offence. Obviously the use of unauthorized material is an assessment offence, however “Hëna e Plotë” (Bedër) University policies make no distinction between possession and use and intention is irrelevant.

Please note that unauthorized material includes any notes stored on your mobile phone or other personal media device. The invigilators have the right to check all the types of this device.

Assessment offences

What is an assessment offence?

Allegations of any of the following will be dealt with according to the Directive on Student Discipline;

- Breaches of any sections of the Regulations relating to the conduct of assessment.
- Plagiarism.
- Fraudulent reporting of source material.
- Fraudulent reporting of experimental results, research or other Investigative work.
- Colluding in the preparation or production of submitted work unless such joint or group work is explicitly permitted.
The use, or attempted use, of ghost writing services for any part of assessment.
- The submission of work, or sections of work, for assessment in more
- than one module or assignment, including where previously submitted for assessment at another institution.

- Impersonating another student in an examination or assessment, or the employment of an impersonator in an examination or assessment.

What is plagiarism?

Using someone else's work or ideas in your own written work is not plagiarism if you have appropriately acknowledged the source. Plagiarism is when you present someone else's work as your own, irrespective of intention. This includes close paraphrasing, copying from and using the ideas of another person without properly crediting their work or failure to reference yourself when repeating work you have previously submitted - 'self-plagiarism'. You may also commit plagiarism by failing to appropriately credit the input of other students in assessed group projects.

Plagiarism is considered to be a serious offence, and carries severe consequences. The University uses technology that can automatically detect where the work of another has been used in your submission and is used to indicate where work is plagiarized.

It is your responsibility to ensure that you understand plagiarism and how to avoid it. The recommendations below will help, but if in doubt ask for further guidance from your personal tutor.

- Record your sources when taking notes, and cite these where you use ideas from the original source.
- Ensure that references are not lost when cutting and pasting information between documents.
- Be sensible: generally accepted views do not always require acknowledgment (e.g. light travels faster than sound).
- Be particularly careful with quotations and paraphrasing.
- Ensure that all sources are referenced appropriately in the text of your work and fully credited in your bibliography.

What is an exam offence?

The possession of unauthorized materials or any other extraneous aid (such as a mobile phone), making a disturbance, attempting to copy from another student, or accessing the question paper before the exam are all examples of exam offences.

Unauthorized materials are anything, which you are not specifically permitted to access during the exam; revision notes or text books for example. It is simply the possession of these that is considered the offence, not the intention to use them and therefore it is very important you ensure that any notes you have are not accessible during the exam. If you find you have anything on you during the exam please put your hand up and give the material to an invigilator.

Mobile phones and some mobile entertainment devices are permitted in an exam venue but must be powered off and the battery removed if possible so that it cannot make a noise during the exam. Do NOT just switch your phone to silent. Your phone must be stored in your bag or in the designated area.

Exam offences are considered very seriously and therefore the penalties are severe. If you are suspected of an offence during an exam then an invigilator will inform you of this, annotate your exam script and impound any prohibited materials (including mobile phones) and the script.

What are the penalties for an assessment offence?

The penalties for an assessment offence range from a formal warning to permanent withdrawal from “Hëna e Plotë” (Bedër) University. The penalty applied will depend on many factors, including the value and type of the assessment, and whether it is a first offence or not.

you will always be given the opportunity to explain the circumstances of the alleged misconduct. Please refer to the Regulation on Discipline for full details of procedures and penalties for misconduct in assessment.
